Lincoln Wells bought two good mule colts of Dunnville parties at $60 each. Lincoln has eight good ones now.

Wm Hansford bought of J. N. Foley his property on Cemetery street, Middleburg, for $200. He will move to it soon.

Allen Hague has returned to his native health after two weeks sojourn in Cincinnati.

The Adair County News, due here Thursday evening, comes dragging into this office late Saturday evening, seemingly almost worn out with its long stay on the road. There is something rotten in Denmark, and one of these days some one will discover that I am a "bad man from Bitter creek. Do you hear?"

You can't always tell, but at this writing things look a little squally for some of the Republicans for county offices, and the Strange party is they don't seem to know it.

Dave Wall and Mrs. Macy Braxwell were tried Tuesday in the Justice court here for adultery and fined $20 and trimmings. The working statute was casually mentioned in the present of the woman when she defiantly remarked that she intended to take her work with her when she went to jail.

Mrs. T. S. Benson and Miss Emma Sharp attended the soldiers' reunion at Kingsville last week.

The Middleburg cornet band made music for the reunion at Kingsville.

Chas. Montgomery and Clay Godby attended magistrate court here Tuesday and were employed in the adultery suit.

The Sunday school convention at Middleburg, Sep. 24, was well attended and was a success in every particular. There were a number of ministers present and the discussion of subjects was very interesting. Notably among those present were, Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Lee, of Grove, P. H. Taylor and Henry Thomas, of Liberty. The temporal welfare as well as the spiritual was cared for. The ladies spread a most sumptuous dinner in Baptist church lot and no one went away hungry. These meetings are doing a vast amount of good in bringing about better work in the Sunday schools. Mr. J. T. Deboard, county president, was delighted with the success as was Miss Lizzie Foyle, county secretary.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. Andrew Judd, father of Mr. J. H. Judd, this place, died in Louisville last Monday. He was a native of Adair county and a good citizen. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Judd left to attend the funeral.

We are indebted to Mrs. Lou Miller for a copy of the "Back-eye" pamphlet that is published in Manila, P. I. by Wm. R. Giddens, nephew of Mrs. Miller. The book is full of interesting matter.

Mrs. S. C. STRANGE.

A most desirable piece of property, lying in the suburbs of Columbia, is the home of Miss Sallie Stewart. There are about 150 acres in the boundary and it lies well. Upon it is a neat, roomy and comfortable residence and all necessary outbuildings. It is for sale. Address Miss Sallie Stewart, Columbia.

Mr. Jas. Callison, a son of Mr. W. J. Callison, was married a few days ago to Miss Florence Edgar, who was a resident of Ohio. Mr. Callison is a hustling business man in his home town, Middleboro, and the young lady is said to possess all the characteristics that go to make up a lovely woman.

George Stults, N. M. Tutt, George T. Flowers and Pat B. Reese four would be Benedicts, have fitted up parlors in the second story of the Tutt building, employed a cook and commenced the life of celebrity in earnest Sunday morning. If it is their desire to thus live they should go to Gethsemane, end in the monastery and become Monks in reality.

In two or three weeks Geo. L. Sehon, State Superintendent of the Children's Home Society, will be in Columbia with a lot of children hoping to find homes for same. If there are homes without children in the town or county and there exists a desire to adopt a child, an opportunity will be afforded.

The following marriage licenses were issued from the Adair county clerks office during the month of September: Curt Hamilton to Iris Turner; Thos. Russell to Ethel Cooley; T. T. Williams to Ida Sherrill; John Stills to Ada Yates; W. H. Dixon to Quency Chaney; S. C. Strange to Miss Birdie Powell; Chas. M. Bryant to Miss Effie Redford.

Mrs. Mary C. Curd, of Bowling Green, Ky., announces the marriage of her grand-daughter, Miss Angeline Clark, to Dr. C. M. Russell, of this place. The marriage will take place the latter part of this month. Miss Clark is well-known in Columbia, having been the principal in the music department of the Lindsay-Wilson last year.

Since the woggle bug made its appearance in the United States there have been many inquiries as how this breed of the feathery tribe looks. Persons who desire to satisfy their curiosity can see one by calling at Reed & Miller's store. It was brought to Columbia by Mr. E. G. Atkins, who recently visited the city and who purchased it for the sole purpose of satisfying the people of Adair county.

For Sale.

A farm containing 216 acres of good land, lying three miles West of Columbia. This property is known as the W. J. Atkins farm. It produces well and there are upon it a good dwelling, good barn and all other necessary outbuildings. There is also much valuable timber. For further information, address G. A. Atkins, Columbia, Ky.

The Internal Revenue Collectors, in compliance with an order of the Commission of that department, has served notice on all the druggists to the effect that they will be required to pay a special tax, the same as that required of retail liquor dealers, if they continue after December 1st, to deal in certain compounds represented as medicines, but which are composed largely of distilled spirits.

At a recent meeting of the Directors of the Bank of Campbellsville Mr. H. R. Turner was chosen cashier to succeed his late father. There are but few better business men than Henry Turner, and in this new relation he enters upon the discharge of his duties with full confidence of the people of Taylor and adjoining counties. Mr. Creed Haskins was also elected a director, a good man and rightly chosen. Mr. John N. Turner was also selected as a member of the Board, a nice selection made by this old and reliable institution.

Mr. John D. White presented his views to a small audience in the court house Monday afternoon, on the proposition to amend the constitution to return to the viva voce system. Mr. White stated that it was a great question, one that evidently had two sides, but after due study he was of the opinion that the amendment should be defeated. His arguments to sustain his views were given in an impassioned manner and clearly indicated that he was speaking from an honest desire to advance the public good rather than party interest. From our view of this question Mr. White's argument fell far short of convincing the great mass of people that our present system of voting is superior to the old way. His main contention was that rows and disturbances would prevail on election days by scramble over floaters.

Pensacola, Sept. 23, 1905. EDITOR NEWS:

It has been about 28 months since I left Columbia and have missed only one copy of the News during that time, so I keep thoroughly posted as to the happenings in Adair and adjoining counties. Many good citizens with whom I was well acquainted and some I could call my personal friends, have passed away during the past two years and their respective families have my sincere sympathy. I often think of the many happy homes that have been made sad in so short a time in that locality. On the other hand it is with pleasure I note the many improvements and the progressive spirit which prevails in and around Columbia, and am glad to note that the News keeps at the head of the procession. Since you enlarged the paper, put in a new press, engine, type, etc., you are certainly giving your patrons value received. The paper is newsy, well gotten up and the "ads" are neat and attractive. With two such schools as the L. W. T. S. and the M. & F. High School, the churches and most social people on earth, electric lights, surrounded by fine farm lands well timbered, with prospects of water works, railroad and plenty of oil, Columbia is certainly in "God's country" and a most desirable place in which to live.

The next thing in order, I suppose, is something of my surroundings, although it suits me best to write and think of home. Pensacola is a cosmopolitan city of about 25,000 inhabitants and has more natural advantages and the deepest and best harbor of any city in the South, where ships of all nationalities arrive and depart and from all parts of the world. It is claimed here that Pensacola is the oldest city in the United States, that her history antedates that of St. Augustine by four years. The largest fish market in the South and the largest Red Snapper market in the world. Perhaps the only city in the United States where you will see a woman driving an ox in the principal streets hitched to a cart in shaves. There are three forts, a navy yard, life saving station and quarantine station, where the Government spends millions of dollars annually in wages, repairs and general improvements. Property is a high, wages good and all lines of business prosperous until yellow fever broke out, but now everything is dull and business is about at a stand still. Many people have left the city; a detention camp has been established about 25 miles from Pensacola and the pharmacist of this station sent to assist P. H. M. H. Surgeon Banks, who is in charge of the camp. All steam boats, schooners, sail boats, etc., bound for any Southern coast town are sent here, fumigated and detained from five to ten days. We had four fumigations yesterday, three today and I know of two we will have tomorrow. The fever situation Thursday night was as follows: New cases six, total to date 55, total deaths nine, cases under treatment fourteen, cases discharged thirty-two.

Quarantine Station is located seven miles from Pensacola on Santa Rosa Island, and according to the latest census the population is twelve all told. The confinement here is the worst feature of the position. We spend a good part of our leisure time fishing and catch Trout, Red Fish, Sheeps Head, Flounders and other smaller fish in abundance. Wednesday I caught an Alligator Gar that weighed 15 pounds which is my largest catch. I am making this longer than I expected, so with best wishes for the News and force and all of my other friends at home, I am

Sincerely,

GEO. F. WALFORD.

What Whisky Does.

[Henry W. Grady.]

Tonight it enters a humble home to strike the roses from a woman's cheek, and tomorrow it challenges this republic in the halls of congress. Today it strikes a crust from the lips of a starving child, and tomorrow levies tribute from the government itself. There is no cottage humble enough to escape it; no place strong enough to shut it out. It defies the law when it cannot coerce suffrage. It is flexible, to cajole, but merciless in victory. It is the mortal enemy of peace and order, the spoiler of men and terror of women, the cloud that shadows the face of children, the demon that has dug more graves and sent more souls unshrined to judgment than all pestilences that have wasted life, since God sent the plagues to Egypt, and all the wars since Joshua stood before Jericho. It comes to ruin, and it shall profit mainly by the ruin of your sons and mine. It comes to mislead human souls and to crush human hearts under its rumbling wheels. It comes to bring gray-headed mothers down to shame and sorrow to their graves. It comes to change the wife's love into despair and her pride into shame. It comes to stifle all the music of the home and fill it with silence and desolation. It comes to still the laughter on the lips of little children. It comes to ruin your body and mind, to wreck your home, and it knows it must measure its prosperity by the swiftness and certainty with which it wrecks this world.

Cholera Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe's Bear Grove, Iowa, cheap death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble" which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since as I find they have no equal." T. E. Paull, druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

Obituary.

The wise saying that "death is a sickle which leaves no sheaf ungathered," was again verified when on the night of September 18th, at 11 o'clock when the angel of death visited the home of Mrs. Em Blair and claimed as its victim her loving son, Jim. He was born July 30th, 1885 and died September 18th, 1905, making him 20 years, one month and 19 days old. He leaves to mourn their loss a loving mother, six brothers, four sisters with many relatives and a host of friends. Jim was a victim of typhoid fever and had been confined to his bed only a few days. All was done that medical aid and loving hands could do, but the disease was too deeply seated for his recovery. He numbered his friends by his acquaintances. He leaves a vacant seat that cannot be filled and he will be greatly missed. The remains were laid to rest in the Salem cemetery Wednesday, September 20, 1 p. m. A large crowd of sympathetic friends attended the funeral. He left bright evidence of a happy beyond. He cannot come back to us, but let us so live as to meet him in the bright beyond, where sorrowing and parting is no more.

"'Tis hard to break the tender chord,
When love has bound the heart.
'Tis hard, so hard to speak the words
We must forever part.
Dearest loved one, we must lay thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished
'Till we see thy heavenly face."

Life Insurance Corruption Funds.

It was developed in New York last week, where an investigation is going on into the affairs of the New York Life Insurance Company, that corporation alone contributed in New York last year to the Republican party $48,000. Other large corporations of like nature probably did the same thing. It amounts to this that every man who has his life insured contributes so much from his policy to corrupt the voters in the interest of the Republican party. When Judge Parker's attention was called to this exposure he said:

"The officers responsible for these raids on the treasuries of corporations have received their rewards in unfettered management of life insurance corporations; in the embarrassed raids on the public through trusts—condemned by both common and statute law; in refusal to punish criminally the officers of railroad and other corporations violating the laws, and in statutory permission to manufacturing corporations to levy tribute on the people."

"There can be no hope of checking the unlawful aggressions of officers of great corporations so long as they may thus form a quasi-partnership with the organization of the dominant political party. For, in the hour when the administrative official seeks to punish the offender he is reminded by the head of the organization of the magnitude of the contributions of the corporations."

"There is, however, something worse if possible, than the escape of such offenders from justice. It is the gradual demoralization of voters and the dulling of the public conscience caused by the efforts to make these vast sums of money procure the ballots they were intended to procure, corruptly and otherwise.—E-Town News.

Borers in Fruit Trees.

The Borers are again at work in the orchards. During the coming month they should be watched closely and killed at every opportunity. The young of the apple tree borers confine their operation largely to the base of the tree and may be discovered by the characteristic borers hanging from an office. The very destructive peach borers work similarly at the base of peach trees, and its presence is usually indicated by the exuding gum. The young of the sugar maple borer, a most destructive insect, are usually found at work on the under side of the lower branches or along the trunk up among the limbs.

The only sure remedy is to cut out these borers, even though the tree is injured to some extent, because the grubs, if allowed to live, are likely to cause a great deal more damage than the cutting.

Where only a few borers are detected they may be hunted by means of a crooked wire inserted in the hole made by the borers and pushed as far as it will go. This generally kills the grubs.—Ex.

Life Is Embittered.

Life is too often embittered by the grievous pains and suffering caused by dyspepsia in one or another of its many forms. No other disease covers such a wide range of symptoms, or causes such varied suffering to its victims. Stomach ache, headache, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, constipation, fever, etc.,—all are due to this one dreadful disease. No wonder that thousands are so enthusiastic over the cure of their disease, by Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin. It is a most potent, marvelous and universal cure. Try it. Sold by J. N. Page, of Columbia, and R. B. Wilson, of Cane Valley, at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

JAPAN'S POLITICAL REASONS.

In a sense the victory is Russia's at Portsmouth. Peace would have been a bargain even at a cost of a big indemnity and Russia could have paid it: an extra half-billion of indebtedness charged against the possibilities. Under the circumstances peace to Russia would have been cheap at any price which Japan might have named—and the Japanese probably knew it as well as any one. At the price paid, the surrender of virtually nothing which the enemy has not taken by force of arms, it is a bargain.

A larger view will award the diplomatic victory of Japan. Not the least of the considerations which impelled it to "magnanimity"—a dramatic show of sacrifice which cost nothing—was the motive, based on practical necessity and prompted by a far-seeing policy, to keep the favor of the powers. Japan's position was unique: it was opposed to a member of the white family which dominates the earth, yet enjoyed the sanction of the other members thereof. Such sanction and sympathy were obviously not dependable, but rather tentative hence superlative tact and broad statement were required for the delicate task of retaining them while negotiating them to advantage.

Had Japan stood out for a large indemnity, other and essential demands having been secured, and had Russia made a brave show of resistance on the field against the overwhelming odds of victories already won, the world's opinion likely would have undergone a change to sympathy for the bedraggled and bloody Slav and resentment against the insatiable and money-mad Jap. In a reasonable view of the case, Japan was entitled to an indemnity in a considerable sum but to have insisted upon it would have been recklessly to have dared the displeasure of nations and sacrifice the extraordinary favor and standing among the powers which Japan fortuitously possessed.

As it was, Japan made its magnanimity impressive. It forfeited nothing while throwing upon Russia the onus of showing a real desire for peace. In the light of history to come Japan's ingratiating reasonableness and generosity are seemingly destined to prove a most profitable investment. Among other things a future clash between the same contestants is not out of the pale of possibilities, in which Japan again would naturally command the friendship of the powers.

The truth seems to be that Russia was whipped to the utmost extent that its own situation, the world's convenience and physical condition would allow; and that Japan has been taxed by the effort to approximately its capacity. The world may graciously concede that Japan could have gone further. Its prowess may receive and will receive the amplest attestation and respect, but the fact stand out plain to the universal recognition that it could better afford to be magnanimous than to tempt Fate.

Has Every Man a Price?

The remark is very frequently made that "every man has his price." Indeed so often is the assertion made and with such bold assertion that we fear it is becoming the creed in many political business circles. It may be that the growth of such an idea is responsible for the increase of "graft." Make the creed universal, and high thinking and noble living will be a thing of the past, and patriotism and business integrity will be only meaningless words. One thing may be said with absolute certainty, the person who asserts or assents to the awful and degrading proposition that every man has his price, may himself be bought and generally bought cheap.

But the assertion is false. We refuse absolutely to believe that all mankind and womanhood is on a level with goods and chattels, and that human character is a mere matter of merchandise. All knees in our day and time have not bowed to the Baal of "graft" and all mouths have not kissed him. There are those who like Samuel, the great prophet, will be able to say even unto the end that they have never taken a bribe from any man, or who would like Job, the great patriarch, endure the direct personal and family afflictions and losses rather than perjure themselves or be false to the King of Truth. Purity of purpose and integrity of character have not taken their departure forever from the earth.—Ex

Top Dressing for Wheat.

Shall we top dress or plow under manure for wheat, is a question of especial interest at this season of the year. There are arguments in favor of each method, but my experience leads me to believe that if the manure is well rotted, top dressing and harrowing in well is preferable, if the field is to be seeded.

There is little danger of losing a good catch of clover on top dressed land. The manure, also, seems to be available for the immediate use of the plant. It takes the lead of that sowed on soil with manure plowed under, and keeps it.

The advocates of the plowing under this method claim that manure on the surface will lose its strength and that the roots will reach it better if plowed under. Careful experiments have shown that manure spread upon the plowed soil as soon as hauled will lose little of its fertilizing value in the air, but that it is practically all absorbed by the soil. True, the roots of wheat extend to quite a depth and would no doubt get much of the fertility. I can endorse the plow under this method for corn but careful observation of both methods lead me to believe that top dressing is preferable for wheat and clover.—Cor., Orange Judd Farmer.

THE ADVISABILITY

Adding Vocal Music to the Common
School Course.

(Written for The News.)

At first thought, without mature reflection, it may seem objectionable to add another branch, or rather a drill, to the present course of study, but when it is remembered that a drill need occupy only a brief period each day, it will readily be seen that proper instruction in vocal music would be not time and labor wasted, but spent to the best possible advantage. It may be objected by some that as a rule teachers are not well informed on the theory, nor efficient in the practice of vocal music, and that some can never become good singers; but these objections may be easily met and refuted on the ground that anyone with good common sense, can, in a very short time, by proper study and application, become fairly well informed in the rudiments and principles underlying the beautiful and elevating science of vocal music, and with the fewest exceptions, by faithful effort, can train and cultivate the voice until good, or fairly good, singing will be the result. A few years ago, when Civil Government was added to the course of study in Kentucky, teachers, without exception, had to make special preparation to pass the examination on this subject, but now it is one of the easiest subjects to pass an examination on in the course of study, and it would be the same way with music. It would require but a short time to prepare to teach it, and to pass on it before the board of examiners. Many other states have adopted it, and none of them regret having done so. Let Kentucky not remain in the rear, but be up in the front ranks, and in after years she, too, will rejoice that she has done so, and her children will sing correctly and with much pleasure, "My Old Kentucky Home," in her praise. If the Legislature will pass the law, it will be but a short time until all will be ready to meet the requirements, because the principles of music are so exact and so simple that any intelligent person can soon prepare to teach this, one of the most delightful and refining of all the sciences. The Greeks classed music as one of the fine arts. It is both an art and a science.

Every successful minister will testify that first-class music is one of the most powerful adjuncts to a successful meeting. It is one of the strongest incentives to induce people to attend church. It inspires the speaker in the sacred desk to put forth his best efforts with courage and zeal, and all those who are delighted, soothed, and charmed by its melody and harmony feel indeed that "it is good to be there."

What else exercises such strong moral and ennobling influences on the society of a community as a well-trained class in music? It is one of the strongest factors in building up first-class society in any section. And if the children in the common schools were properly trained, there are no valid reasons why there should not be a good vocal class in almost every neighborhood, which would be a prolific source of both pleasure and profit. Physically, it is one of the very best exercises, strengthening the lungs and helping to ward off pulmonary diseases. Probably, the greatest benefits derived from it come from the cultivation of the emotional and moral natures, and especially of children. Who can hear a touching selection of music well rendered without being sensibly affected; without the conscience responding to the ennobling sentiments contained therein; without a desire to do better and to be better; and without forming higher aspirations and purer motives?

The poet Congreve said, "Music hath power to soothe the savage beast," but whether this be literally true or not one thing is certain that in all ages mankind, both in religion and patriotism, has been moved to conduct and action by its magic charms. Several thousand years ago, King David touched the hearts of his fellow-countrymen by the Psalms, those delightful sacred musical compositions which are admired to the present day. "He touched his harp and nations stood entranced." The Greeks fancied Apollo to be the world's greatest musician, and accorded to him divine worship. Every true Frenchman's heart is touched by the "Marseilles Hymn," every patriotic Englishman is moved by the song, "God save the Queen," and every loyal American is inspired with love of country of hearing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," or "The Star-Spangled Banner." As Shakespeare says:

The man that hath no music in his soul.

Nor is it moved with concourse of sweet sounds,

Is fit for treason, stratagem and spoil.

The motions of his spirit are as dull as night."

It is related that Charles Wesley, one of the world's greatest hymnists, on a voyage across the Atlantic Ocean, when the ship was many miles from land, observed a little bird trying to seek shelter and protection from wind and storm in the rigging of the vessel. This suggested to his mind a train of thought, and as a result he penned that grand old song, one of the sweetest and best the world has ever known, which has been an inspiration and a consolation to Christian people of every denomination for over a hundred years. When he wrote the words:

"Jesus lover of my soul

Let me to thy bosom fly

While the billows near me roll

While the tempest still is high,"

he immortalized his name in the Christian world.

And so it has been throughout all the ages. Through the influence of music men have inspired to brave danger, to meet death on the battlefield, and to catch glimpses of heaven while yet on earth.

In the language of Alexander Pope:

"Music the fiercest grief can charm,

And fate's severest rage disarm.

Music can soften pain to ease,

And make despair and madness please;

Our joys below it can improve,

And antedate the bliss above."

W. O. FINE,
GORDON MONTGOMERY,
COMMITTEE.

THE FOURTH

State Development Convention to Meet in Louisville
October 10, 11 and 12.

The following named gentlemen have been selected to represent Adair county in the State Development Convention to be in Louisville October 10, 11 and 12: James Garnett, W. K. Azbill, Gordon Montgomery, W. F. Jeffries, H. B. Garnett, Horace Jeffries, E. G. Atkins, C. S. Harris, Geo. A. Atkins, J. S. Stapp, H. C. Walker, W. W. Yates, W. I. Ingram, Van P. Dunbar, W. A. Garnett, James A. Willis, Hon. L. C. Nell, Judge T. A. Murrell.

It is the purpose of this convention to arouse greater interests in every section of the State toward development in every line of industry and it is to be hoped that good delegation from every county will attend. If there is a state of great resources and great possibilities, in our entire country, awaiting the magic hand of development it is our own beloved Kentucky. Rich in agricultural lands, adorned with magnificent forests of great value, with deposits of almost inexhaustible minerals—enough coal to keep the fire of the world going for a century, blessed with the best water between the equator and north pole and occupying a central position in a great territory Kentucky ought to out do and lead in the great march of progress. It will do it by and by but indifference and inactivity on the part of Kentuckians only with holds such conditions. This convention is designed to awaken an interest, to call attention of outside capitalist to the great possibilities of varied industries that can flourish in this state.

A roll call of the counties will bring in every section and the answering of the following questions will unfold the needs of every locality:

What inducements are offered by your county or city to capital seeking investment?

What industries—manufacturing or other—do you most need?

What are its products; what its resources?

What does it need in the way of development to make it a richer a more productive county? The correct answering of the above ought to redound to the good of every section and especially this of ours. The News insists on a full attendance of the delegates from this and adjoining counties. The railroads will give one fare rates plus 25 cents.

Gov. Beckham, Senators Blackburn and McCreary will preside. Make up your mind to go and go talking our country.

The Insurance Commissioners of five states, including Kentucky, have completed arrangements and will investigate the doings of the New York Life Insurance Company.

John Walden, a negro barber of Glasgow, was before the Republican convention for the nomination to the office of County Court Clerk of Barren. Of course he was turned down.

The highest price paid for a one-year-old colt was given by Senator McCarran, a Democratic leader of Brooklyn, New York, last week. It was a Blair Athol colt and the price paid was $11000.

President Roosevelt has done another graceful act: He has ordered Capt. Fitzhugh Lee detailed as one of his aids at the White House. This recognition is highly appreciated by the people of the South.

The Louisville Post claims to be fighting political corruption in Louisville and Kentucky, and its efforts seem to be unceasing. For several years it has pointed out the bad, giving much space in advertising the system of political warfare in this commonwealth, and particularly its own city. It claims to have discovered much corruption by which the will of the people has been set at naught and political clicks enthroned. Its onslaught on ballot-box stuffers, repeaters and thieves have been constant and emphatic. It claims to be for a free vote and an honest count yet it stands for the secret ballot system, whose dark curtains cover the foot prints of all the evils it is combatting—a system that has fathered and fostered more frauds than any other that ever existed. If the Post really and truly desires to overthrow political corruption and establish old fashioned honesty, if it has no political ends of its own to accomplish, then it ought to advocate an open, honest system of voting where the records tell the tale and the ballot-box stuffers and repeaters are run out of business. Record the votes and reduce the trouble. How can the people expect fair elections under a system that permits frauds and enables repeaters to operate? Why not go back to the old way, the way that told the tale in no unmistakable terms, the way that spotted the true man from the floater? Since the dark-curtain process has been used in this state, we have had contests from Constable to Governor, from the smallest precincts to the largest city. The good name of Kentucky has been stained with blood and her proud standing of the past has been blurred with frauds. The people are not less honest now, but it is the system that gives the opportunity to the unscrupulous and really no adequate means of election can be devised to uncover secret frauds. A vote to amend the constitution is a vote to overthrow the secret ballot and return to the viva voce.

E. K. Renaker, of Cynthiana, and the Democratic nominee for State Senator, has agreed to pay $3,500 awarded against him in a suit for slander, brought by Miss Elizabeth Whitaker. The Democratic Committee of Harrison county will likely withdraw Mr. Renaker's name as the nominee for the Senate.

Misbehavior in Church.

A comm n practice among the young men and young women of today, is misbehavior in church. And it is a most detestable habit too. We say habit for it seems to be a habit with some of the young people and oftentimes those who are guilty of such conduct are of the best families, and their parents have tried to bring them up in the right way, but they have heeded not their parents training. Very often young people who would behave in church are thrown in company with an unmannered crowd and they are led to misbehave on account of their surroundings. If a young man or woman has a distaste for ill manners in church and really abhors such conduct, they can behave, even if they are in a crowd of girls and boys that are misbehaving.

Misbehavior in church shows that those who are guilty of such conduct are ill bred, ill mannered, have no respect for their parents, no respect for the preacher or congregation, and no respect for themselves. Young people who cannot go to church without laughing and talking during the service had better stay at home, for that is no place for such conduct. When you misbehave in church you are sure to disturb some one who went there to hear the sermon and to receive some benefit therefrom.

Young ladies and gentlemen you should be careful how you conduct yourselves in church for if you are guilty of misbehavior, it shows there is something wrong somewhere, and you should conceal your ignorance and ill manners as much as possible.

Marriage Prevented.

The following is taken from last Friday's Louisville Times:

"Dressed in cream colored silk and carrying a bouquet of brides roses and incidentally a Fall jacket and facinator, Ethel Roberts aged 17, was arrested as she left a Louisville and Nashville train at noon to-day together with her male escort, Joseph Thomas, with whom she left her home this morning to be married at Jeffersonville. Lieutenant Wickham was detained to look out for the couple when a telegram was received at Acting Chief Ridge's office requesting their detention and promising a substantial reward if the young lady was apprehended before the ceremony was performed. At Chief Ridge's office the couple told a story of blighted hopes. The young man had "waited on Ethel" two years and her father had never objected until they proposed marriage a few weeks ago. Since then he has forbidden the young man to come to his home and the elopement was planned. The girl was taken in charge by Police Matron Haymon, while the young man was given his freedom. He declared he would stay here until his sweetheart left, follow her home and try again. In this plan the young woman readily acquiesced."

Thomas is a farmer and about twenty-three years of age. Miss Roberts is the only daughter of Mr. G. W. Roberts, who resides near Pellyton, Adair county.

Dr. James E. Grant.

Dr. James E. Grant, of Louisville, who is a nephew of Mr. J. E. and Dr. Jas. Triplett, of this place, was married in Louisville Wednesday of last week. The following notice of the event is taken from the Louisville Herald:

A very quiet and informal, but very pretty wedding occurred in the parlors of the Rev. Dr. H. G. Ogden last evening at 7 o'clock. The contracting parties were Dr. James E. Grant and Miss Susan H. Brashear. Miss Brashear, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Brashear, of this city, is well-known and much admired by a wide circle of friends. Dr. Grant, one of Louisville's most promising young professional men, was recently graduated from the Louisville College of Dentistry, and enjoys already, a large practice. The happy couple left last night for a bridal tour in the East, and will on their return be at home at 431 West Chestnut Street.

Politeness.

Politeness is a quality in which most of the American young men, as a class, admits of improvement. Where is there a boy who is polite alike to parents, teachers, associates, strangers, in a word to every one?

It is not necessary to have fine clothes or fine education, or fine words to be a gentleman. The only requisite is summed up in the one word "Politeness." Some one has said that good manners to an individual is what polish is to an old shoe. Politeness is more than polish. It also indicates a good breeding. The real kind comes from the heart. Practice it young men in your everyday life, make it a part of your existence, and see how much better you come out in the end.

Ask yourselves and remember, we are just what we make ourselves.

Nello J. Campbell, formerly city editor of the Philadelphia, Pa., Times, at present contracting agent of Col. M. L. Clark combined shows spent a few moments with us Friday last. Mr. Campbell was formerly employed in the same capacity with such circuses as John Robinson's, the Great Wallace shows, Walter L. Main, Campbell Bros. shows etc., and he assures us that he brings to Columbia this season, one of the finest equipped circuses he has ever handled. Mr. Campbell carries with him six bill posting wagons and a corps of the most glibly manipulators we have ever met, and they decorated the barns and dead walls of the town and country for miles around with big flaming posters that transported the small boy into the realm of mystery and wonder, and made the old citizen stop and think of his boy hood days when he crept stealthily from his snug little bed and walked miles in the country to get the first glimpse of the elephant and escort this self same Clark circus into town. The show will be in Columbia next Friday

Use Your Brains.

Meet your problems with an effort of the mind. Meet your difficulties, your sorrows, your disappointments with an effort of the will which is a struggle of the brain.

Devote your energies to maintaining mental alertness. Remember that brain inside your skull contains all your hope for the future, all your possibilities of usefulness as well as pleasure, since there alone sensation and real activity exist.

Wise reading is important, for reading feeds the brain. But earnest concentrated thinking is infinitely more important, since thinking exercises the brain.

And as exercise and the quality of exercise are even more important to our bodies than food, so thinking and exercise of the brain's faculties are infinitely more than reading.

Use your brains to succeed, an above all, use your brains to counteract the depressing, discouraging effects of failure.

Remember that if you do as well as you can you have done all that you ought to do. Do not worry about the superior achievements of others. You have no cause for worry unless your life is to bring you up to your highest possible degree of mental development. —Massachusetts Ploughman.

Self Government in Public Schools.

Organized self-government of children by children for children, is in successful operation in many of the schools of New York, Philadelphia and other localities. It ought to be introduced everywhere, for it has solved the problem of municipal politics, and has vindicated the wisdom of representative government; irrespective of sex. Like the system of "juvenile courts," as a substitute for ordinary police supervision, it has proved its superior efficiency, and has come to stay.

The first trial of the new system was made in a disorderly school of more than 2,000 pupils in one of the suburbs of New York.

The whole discipline of the school was placed in the hands of the children themselves. They elect a mayor and council. The teacher is at the meeting of the council, and retain ultimate authority, but rarely exercise it. Formerly the constant presence of policemen was required on the playgrounds. Within a week, with the right and responsibility of governing themselves, the school became orderly and law abiding.

In these miniature republics of boys and girls governing themselves and each other by universal suffrage, holding their own courts, making and enforcing their own laws, no special legislative or private interest has any chance. There is no graft, no boodles, no collusion between their police and wrong-doers.

President Roosevelt has commended the teaching of civics by this admirable plan. Many eminent educators give it their enthusiastic approval. But if children, without distinction of sex, have thus demonstrated their ability to carry on government, how long will it be before the same principle will be applied to all citizens, men and women, with similar beneficent results? —Henry B. Blackwell in woman's Journal.

Many a cow with fair results could be made to produce double if she had the proper material in the shape of food to work up into milk; the machine may be all right, but the material all wrong. We must have both to have success. She must of necessity consume large quantities of nutritious food if she gives a large and paying amount of milk. She cannot consume dry feed enough and digest it, to work her milk productive power to full capacity without succulent, easily digested foods.

Made a Hit.

When Dr. W. B. Caldwell, the sage of Monticello, first prescribed his great remedy for indigestion, constipation and biliousness, now known as Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin, its success was so great that it made an instant hit. Since then it has been used all over the world and has never failed to duplicate its first successes. Try it. Sold by J. N. Page of Columbia, and E. B. Wilson of Geneva Valley at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

Pain Causes Loss of Flesh.

At a Wisconsin convention a cattle feeder said: "You must keep a steer comfortable. One time I had my steers weighed in and one had gained only ten pounds during the month, while the others had gained from 50 to 60 pounds each. I thought of course my boys who weighed them had made a mistake. The second month that steer gained only 15 pounds, while the others had gained 80 pounds. I examined that steer and I found he stood where the floor had worn down and that he stood on his toes and his legs had become sore. He had been in pain all the time. I took him out of that place and put him in a box stall and he gained ninety pounds a month for the next three months. At another time I let the steers out for water and they ran hard and one steer hit and cracked his horn. He gained only fifteen pounds the next month. The rest gained eighty pounds each."

Last Hope Vanished.

When leading physicians said that W. M. Smith, of Pekin, Ill., had incurable consumption, his last hope vanished; but Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, kept him out of his grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me and saved my life. Since then, I have used it, for over ten years, and consider it a marvelous throat and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for Coughs, Sore Throats or Colds; sure preventive of Pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50c and $1.00 bottles at T. E. Paul's drug store. Trial bottle free.

When Dewey Cried.

The following story is told of Admiral Dewey by one of the sailors on the Raleigh and printed by the Kansas City Journal: Just before the battle of Manila, when the order was given to strip for action, the smallest powder boy on the flagship dropped his coat overboard. He asked permission to jump after it but was refused. He went to the side of the ship, dropped overboard, recovered his coat and was promptly arrested for disobedience. Admiral Dewey spoke kindly to the youngster, who broke down and said that the coat contained his mother's picture, which he had just kissed, and he could not bear to see it lost. Dewey's eyes filled with tears. He fairly embraced the boy and ordered him released, saying: "Boys who love their mothers enough to risk their lives for their pictures can not be kept in irons in this fleet."

From Oklahoma.

Foss, Sept. 18, 1905.
EDITOR NEWS: I promised to write a letter to the News, telling the people of Old Kentucky about Oklahoma:

I landed here Friday, September 6th, and am proud of the looks of the country, but crops are short this year. The people are as sociable as I ever met—meet friends on every side and they say they are glad to welcome us in the Territory. Horses, mules, cattle, hogs, etc., look well, but the water is bad. The flint rock cannot be found here

Land is worth from $2,000 to $5,000 a quarter section—160 acres. Water-melons grow here in great abundance, and very large. I bought one that would have weighed 50 or 60 pounds. The soil here runs from 10 to 15 feet deep. There is timber on the streams, and while on the prairies you can see for miles.

The Washita river is a small stream, about the size of Russell's creek, but fish are caught out of it weighing 80 pounds. Ducks are plentiful in the fall, so I am told.

There are people here from all over the United States, all doing well. The wind has been high since my arrival and there has been one nice rain, putting the ground in fine shape for sowing wheat. Cotton picking in full blast.

The Dream of Social Equality.

The Western Negro Press Association in convention assembled at Muskogee last week passed this resolution: "It being considered the settled policy of the white people of the Southern States to abridge the rights of the colored people and thereby nullify the Fifteenth Amendment a memorial shall be presented to the President and to Congress opposing Statehood for the Indian Territory and Oklahoma unless an absolute guarantee shall be given that no separate coach laws, separate school laws and other laws discriminating between the races will be passed."

The leader of the negro race in the South goes North and associates on terms of equality with the whites—a thing he no more dares attempt among the whites of his own home-people than to stick his head in the fire.

It is idle to deny that the dream of the negro's soul is social equality with the white man. The highest aspiration of any inferior race, has always been, will always be, equality with the superior race.

State Democratic Campaign headquarters has been established at the Old Inn, Louisville, with J. M. Lassing, Chairman, and Percy Haly, Sec. Thorough organization and thorough work is the word that should be passed all along the line. Obstructionists, destructionists, iconoclasts, soreheads and the supremely selfish who happen to be in positions of influence and leadership will not be allowed to pursue their course of injury to the party unnoticed and unrebuked. But for these the progress of Kentucky to the forefront, under democratic regime, and under the competent and successful management of the people's administration, can be continued without interruption.

Mystery Deepens.

Mystery deepens as to why so many millions persist in suffering from such fearful ailments as dyspepsia, constipation, etc., when they could so easily get rid of every one of their troubles by a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup. Have you tried it? If not, do so to-day. Sold by J. N. Page, of Columbia, and R. B. Wilson, of Cane Valley, at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

Beautiful Country Homes

Ever since Mother Eve sat out side the gates of Eden, weeping over lost paradise, woman's heart has yearned for things beautiful. Bereft of them, there is a void in her heart nothing else can fill.

Of all women, the farmer's wife and daughters most need attractive surroundings. They are so isolated from all social advantages that they are almost entirely dependent upon the inanimate objects around them for companionship. There is nothing in the inanimate kingdom more companionable than flowers. Lovely flowers! They have a language all their own to increase our joys or soothe our sorrows. We strew them in the pathway of the happy young bride. We place them tenderly above the bier of the dead. Then why not strew them along life's rugged way between the altar and the tomb.

If each rural home had its pretty lawn and bright flowers, the earth would be greatly enhanced. Every one coming within its radius would be benefited, neighbors, visitors and friends. Even the weary traveler along the dusty highway would be cheered and refreshed by an occasional glimpse of beauty.

The weary housewife, as she steps out on the piazza for a breath of fresh air, would sooner forget the heat of the kitchen or steam of the bathtub under their soothing influence.

The young girls having something pleasant to occupy their time and attention, would be less prone to leave their sweet country home to seek "employment" in the city. The men and boys would enjoy their beauty and fragrance with the women.

I do not wish to convey the idea that flowers alone create happiness; they are only one means by which is promoted to a higher degree.—Cor. Practical Farmer.

Clover Aids Corn Crops.

It is common experience that clover in the rotation markedly benefits the corn crop following. It is quite commonly supposed that this benefit is due to nitrogen obtained from the air by the clover. The results which have been obtained indicate that on our ordinary soil this accumulation of nitrogen is not the primary factor in increasing the subsequent corn yield. It is well known that the growing of clover improves the physical properties of the soil, puts the soil in better tilth, so that it is pulverized better and does not run together so badly. In many soils the clover also acts beneficially in increasing the porosity of the subsoil because of its extensive and deep rooting system, and thus improves the natural drainage. All of this is physical improvement.

Valuable Home for Sale.

I will sell my house and lot at a bargain. It is one of the best dwellings in the town, a two-story frame, eight rooms with porch, plenty of good water, fresh and sulphur, and the lot contains 24 acres with plenty of fruit. The location is all that any one could desire. G. W. ROBERTSON.

When heavy rains come up suddenly it often happens that small chicks are over taken and completely drenched. They are not drowned, as is sometimes supposed but chilled, and if they are placed near a stove, wrapped in warm flannel and given time to dry, they will revive. A chick that is to all appearance dead may be restored by warmth. Even in the middle of summer chicks are easily chilled by sudden showers.

Her Reply.

A lady received the following reply from a neighbor in answer to the question why she allowed her children and husband to "litter" up every room in the house, and the sentiment will find lodgement in the heart of every home-loving person in the land. "The marks of the little muddy feet upon the clean floor can be easier removed than the stain when these little feet go down into the mud of the highway to evil. The prints of the little fingers on the window pane cannot shut out the sunshine half so well as the shadows that darken the mother's heart over that one who is but a name through the coming years. And if my John finds his home a refuge from care and trouble and his greatest happiness within its four walls, he can put his boots in the rocking chair and hang his coat on the floor every day in the week. And if I can stand it and he enjoys it, I can not see that it is any body else's business."

Family Skeleton.

Many a person's family skeleton is a state of weak digestive organs inherited from careless ancestors. The skeleton can be laid to rest by Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin. Better do so at once, otherwise it will dog you daily, and keep you in constant misery, and in danger from worse complications. Syrup Pepsin is a specific for indigestion, constipation, headache and biliousness. Try it. Sold by J. N. Page, of Columbia, and R. B. Wilson, of Cane Valley, at 50c and $1.00.
